

Affidavit for Dependent Eligibility and Tax Status

Things to consider regarding dependent tax status:

- Employer-provided health care coverage for employees, spouses and certain other family members is exempt from federal income and employment taxes, and in most states, state taxes. However, family members must meet various criteria for these tax advantages to apply.
- Federal law determines the circumstances under which health benefits coverage for the dependent of an employee is eligible for tax favored treatment. If eligible for tax favored treatment, payroll deductions for benefits are taken on a pre-tax basis (deducted from pay before taxes are assessed and withheld).
- Retiree health benefit coverage is always paid on a post-tax basis, whether deducted from pension earnings or paid by the retiree via coupon.
- When coverage is provided for dependents that are not eligible for pre-tax coverage, the employee contribution for that dependent's coverage must be made on a post-tax basis. In addition, the employer subsidy for that coverage becomes taxable income (imputed income) for the employee. The Benefits Guide describes imputed income in more detail.

You will be required to submit a copy of both your and your partner/spouse's most recent federal tax return showing your partner/spouse as your dependent.

Test 4 – Child dependent who doesn't satisfy Test 1 or 2

Coverage can be pretax if you check ALL SIX boxes below as true:

- This person is any one of the following:
- Your child by birth or adoption or your stepchild.
 - A descendant of someone in A.
- This person lives with you for more than half the year.
- This person does not provide more than half of his/her support through the year.

Coverage can be pretax if you check ALL THREE boxes below as true:

- You provide more than half of this person's support during the calendar year.
- This person is either one of the two below:
- Cannot be claimed as any other taxpayer's qualifying child dependent.
 - Can be claimed as another taxpayer's qualifying child dependent, but that taxpayer isn't required to file a federal tax return and doesn't do so (or only files to get a refund of previously withheld income taxes).
